Pension fund invests here

The New York State Common Retirement Fund, the pension fund for state employees, will invest $1.4 million in Accu-Dyne Inc. of Rochester, a fabricator of precision metal products. The investment will make it possible for the 80-person company to continue operating here, officials said late Tuesday.

The pension fund investment was made through Trillium Lakefront Partners III, a $25 million investment fund managed locally by the Trillium Group of Pittsford. The money comes from the Retirement Fund's In-State Investment Program, which invests in New York companies. Under terms of the deal, Trillium now has a controlling interest in the company.
